Our diet meal delivery plans are delivered to your doorstep five days a week in a thermally insulated cooler bag to ensure that your food maintains freshness and taste. The Fresh Premium, Fresh Classic and Fresh Vegetarian diet meal plans offer seven days of the freshest produce, meats and breads hand delivered to your door five days a week. (emphasis added)

64. Plaintiffs' work was performed in the normal course of Defendant The Fresh Diet's business and was integrated into the Fresh Diet Defendants' business.

65. Plaintiffs often worked in excess of 40 hours per week, yet the Fresh Diet Defendants willfully failed to pay them overtime compensation of 1.5 times their regular hourly rate, in violation of the FLSA and the NYLL and pertinent regulations promulgated thereunder.

66. The Fresh Diet Defendants knew that the nonpayment of overtime would economically damage Plaintiffs and violate the FLSA, the NYLL, and regulations promulgated thereunder.

68. Defendant The Fresh Diet, through Defendant Hussain, was directly responsible for reprimanding and/or otherwise disciplining or punishing the Plaintiffs whenever he became dissatisfied with any aspect of their performance.

69. Throughout all relevant time periods, upon information and belief, the Fresh Diet Defendants failed to post and to keep posted a notice explaining the minimum wage and overtime pay rights provided by the FLSA.

70. During the course of Plaintiffs' employment with the Fresh Diet Defendants, the Fresh Diet Defendants failed to maintain accurate and sufficient time records.

Retaliation Claims

71. On June 1, 2012, Plaintiffs Hernandez and Guzman filed Hernandez I against the Fresh Diet Defendants for unpaid overtime.

72. On or about June 26, 2012, the Fresh Diet Defendants terminated Plaintiff Hernandez's employment.

73. On or about June 28, 2012, the Fresh Diet Defendants terminated Plaintiff Guzman's employment.

74. The Fresh Diet Defendants terminated Plaintiffs Hernandez and Guzman because they filed Hernandez I, complaining about Defendants' FLSA and NYLL violations.

75. In and around March 2013, Plaintiff Correa discussed with the Fresh Diet Defendants' employees his intention of joining the Hernandez I action.

76. Plaintiff Correa opted in to the Hernandez I on March 15, 2013. (Docket No. 91.)

77. On March 15, 2013, that very same day, Plaintiff Correa was terminated by Defendants.

78. Upon his termination, Defendants' employee, known only as "Cesar" to Plaintiff Correa, told Plaintiff Correa that "[Plaintiff Correa] was a traitor because he was in the lawsuit" and "[o]ver [his] dead body [Plaintiff Correa] wasn't going to get nothing [sic]."

79. The Fresh Diet Defendants willfully violated Plaintiffs Hernandez's, Guzman's, and Correa's rights by discharging them for filing and/or participating in an action against the Fresh Diet Defendants alleging violations of the FLSA and NYLL.

80. Retaliation against employees for filing and/or participating in an action alleging a FLSA and NYLL violation violates respectively the FLSA and NYLL.

Defendants Late Night and The Fresh Diet Were Joint Employers of Plaintiffs

81. At all relevant times, upon information and belief, Defendants Late Night and The Fresh Diet were business partners.

82. Upon information and belief, Duchman is the CEO at The Fresh Diet, the CEO at YS, and the President of Late Night.

83. Upon information and belief, Duchman personally created Late Night for the sole purpose of using it as a channel for hiring and compensating Plaintiffs.

84. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times, Duchman was the sole owner of Late Night.

85. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times, The Fresh Diet was Late Night's only client. Late Night worked exclusively with Fresh Diet.

86. Upon information and belief, Late Night was The Fresh Diet's only distributor.

87. Upon information and belief, Late Night had no function other than to serve as the delivery arm of Fresh Diet.

88. Upon information and belief, The Fresh Diet paid Late Night based on Late Night's operations.

89. The Fresh Diet managed Late Night's business operations. For example, if a customer had a problem or complaint with a driver, he or she would contact The Fresh Diet.

90. The Fresh Diet provided daily-prepared meals, which Plaintiffs delivered directly to Fresh Diet's customers.

91. The Fresh Diet instructed Late Night and Plaintiffs as to how to handle the meals, including how Plaintiffs were to deliver them.

92. Defendant Hussain, the New York Regional Delivery Manager of Late Night and The Fresh Diet, managed the Plaintiffs from The Fresh Diet's regional "kitchen" or food preparation and distribution facility on Siegel Street in Brooklyn, New York ("The Fresh Diet's facility").

93. Additionally, Hussain often managed The Fresh Diet's facility.

94. Hussain often acted on behalf of The Fresh Diet. For example, in a letter dated February 11, 2011, Hussain signed a letter on The Fresh Diet's letterhead, in which he identified himself and Plaintiff Collado as The Fresh Diet's employees; Hussain was The Fresh Diet's Regional Delivery Manager and Plaintiff Collado was The Fresh Diet's delivery driver.

95. Hussain also used The Fresh Diet's email address, namely, syed@thefreshdiet.com.

96. Upon information and belief, Hussain is now The Fresh Diet's Director of Logistics.

97. Plaintiffs reported to work at The Fresh Diet's facility.

98. Hussain frequently directed Plaintiffs to take part in meal-preparation work at The Fresh Diet's facility.

99. At all relevant times, Late Night did not have a facility; rather, Plaintiffs met, worked at, and picked up meals from The Fresh Diet.

100. None of The Fresh Diet's meals or the meals' packaging reflected a connection with Late Night; all meals and packaging delivered by Plaintiffs were clearly marked with the words "The Fresh Diet."

101. Defendants The Fresh Diet and Late Night jointly were responsible for managing Plaintiffs and paying Plaintiffs' wages.

102. Hussain had the power to hire and fire Plaintiffs, as well as the rest of the drivers for Late Night, and indeed did hire and fire drivers. Drivers that Hussain terminated from working for Late Night could not deliver meals for The Fresh Diet. No driver delivered food for The Fresh Diet that was not working for Late Night.

103. Hussain directly controlled Plaintiffs' work schedules and conditions of employment, determined the rate and method of payment, and kept records regarding their employment.

104. Defendant Schlass, as COO of The Fresh Diet, has the right to supervise, direct and control Hussain.

105. Schlass frequently visits The Fresh Diet food preparation facility in Brooklyn and has had direct involvement in the management and operations of that facility, including delivery operations.

106. Schlass, a partner at The Fresh Diet, discussed deliveries with Hussain.

107. Upon information and belief, Duchman has the right to control all aspects of The Fresh Diet's operations including the right to supervise, direct and control all persons employed by Defendants The Fresh Diet, including Schlass, Hussain, and Late Night.

108. The Fresh Diet subjected Plaintiffs to its policies, including setting the period by which Plaintiffs had to deliver the meals and how Plaintiffs were to handle the meals.

109. The Fresh Diet gave Late Night direction regarding Plaintiffs' pay structure, including directing Late Night to pay Plaintiffs by the mile driven.

110. Many of the Plaintiffs had car magnets, ID cards, hats, bags, and other material that stated "The Fresh Diet" with The Fresh Diet logo, which Hussain distributed to Plaintiffs.

111. The Fresh Diet since promoted Hussain from his job as New York Regional Manager of Late Night to the Director of Logistics for The Fresh Diet, Inc.

Innovative's and New Fresh's Involvement

112. On August 15, 2014, by a reverse triangle merger, Innovative acquired The Fresh Diet, which became a wholly owned subsidiary of Innovative. Innovative created FD Acquisition Corp., which merged with The Fresh Diet, The Fresh Diet being the surviving company.

113. Upon closing of the merger, The Fresh Diet operated as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Innovative subject to the complete oversight of Innovative's board of directors and Innovative's President and Chief Executive Officer.

114. As Plaintiffs in the above-captioned case were named or opt-in plaintiffs in Hernandez I, and Innovative was involved in the litigation of Hernandez I, Innovative had notice of this action prior to acquiring The Fresh Diet.

115. Duchman sold his ability to control The Fresh Diet to Innovative.

116. Innovative provided all The Fresh Diet's financing.

117. For example, Innovative invested one million dollars ($1,000,000) in funding directly to The Fresh Diet.

118. Innovative controlled all aspects of The Fresh Diet, including, but not limited to, its operations, the hiring and firing of employees, the payment of wages, and legal issues.

119. For example, Innovative retained attorneys to represent The Fresh Diet in Hernandez I.

120. As The Fresh Diet's successor, Innovative was immediately responsible for making sure that The Fresh Diet's current and former employees were paid in accordance with the FLSA and NYLL.

121. On February 9, 2016, Innovative entered into a letter of intent to sell a controlling interest in The Fresh Diet to New Fresh.

122. On February 9, 2016, Innovative appointed Duchman as interim Chief Executive Officer of The Fresh Diet.

123. On February 23, 2016, the transaction was completed, with Innovative selling ninety percent (90%) of its ownership in The Fresh Diet to New Fresh, which is controlled by Duchman.

124. Upon information and belief, Duchman repurchased The Fresh Diet because Innovative purportedly intended to bankrupt the Fresh Diet to avoid judgment in Hernandez I.

125. On or about July 22, 2016, The Fresh Diet's operations abruptly ceased.

126. On information and belief, The Fresh Diet filed an assignment for benefit of creditors—the Florida equivalent of a bankruptcy—in or around July 2016.

127. According to Daniel Gielchinsky, Esq., Duchman's general counsel, Innovative drove The Fresh Diet "to financial ruin" by "taking on too many employees" and "attempting to grow too quickly without a set expansion plan," showing definitively that Innovative had controlled The Fresh Diet's operations, including the ability to, for instance, control employment practices, retain and hire employees, determine employee compensation, and develop The Fresh Diet's growth strategy.

128. Since Innovative controlled employment practices, specifically as they relate to retention, hiring, and employee compensation, and these issues are central to this action, Innovative is a necessary defendant in this action.

129. As Duchman was the original founder of The Fresh Diet and New Fresh, New Fresh had notice of this pending action prior to acquiring The Fresh Diet.

130. In Hernandez I, Innovative claimed that The Fresh Diet could not pay the settlement amount; therefore, upon information and belief, The Fresh Diet did not have the ability to provide the relief Plaintiffs seek.

131. Upon information and belief, The Fresh Diet—whether independent, owned by Innovative, or owned by New Fresh—has always been a business that prepares meals for delivery to its customers.

132. Upon information and belief, The Fresh Diet—whether independent, owned by Innovative, or owned by New Fresh—has always employed the key same core group of individuals, including Defendants Duchman, Schloss, and Hussain, and works from the same warehouses in New York.

133. Upon information and belief, The Fresh Diet—whether independent, owned by Innovative, or owned by New Fresh—has demanded of its delivery drivers the same core responsibilities, duties, and conditions.

134. Upon information and belief, The Fresh Diet—whether independent, owned by Innovative, or owned by New Fresh—has always used the same equipment and methods of production and produces the same final product, that is, prepared meals for delivery to its clients.

144. At all relevant times, Wage and Hour Plaintiffs were employed by Defendants within the meaning of the NYLL §§ 2 and 651.

145. Defendants willfully violated Wage and Hour Plaintiffs rights by failing to pay them overtime compensation at rates not less than one and one-half times the regular rate of pay for each hour worked in excess of forty (40) hours in a workweek, in violation of NYLL and its applicable regulations.

Defendants Violated the FLSA and NYLL by Terminating Retaliation Plaintiffs

148. Retaliation Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference paragraphs 1 through 147 as if they were set forth again herein.

149. Defendants terminated Plaintiffs Hernandez, Guzman and Correa because they participated in a lawsuit against Defendants asserting their rights pursuant to the FLSA and NYLL.

150. 29 U.S.C. § 215(a) prohibits any person to discharge any employee because such employee has filed any complaint under or related to the FLSA.

151. NYLL § 215 prohibits an employer from discharging an employee because such employee has made a complaint that the employer has engaged in conduct that the employee believes violates any provision of the NYLL.

152. As a direct and proximate consequence of Defendants' illegal conduct, Plaintiffs Hernandez, Guzman and Correa have been denied wages, salary, employment benefits, professional advancement, and actual monetary losses.

153. Plaintiffs Hernandez, Guzman and Correa are entitled to compensatory damages, liquidated damages, costs, attorneys' fees, and any other damages and compensation that the Court deems appropriate.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs respectfully request that this Court grant the following relief:
